Sam Hirst : Rider Fit Call - September 11

VIEW RECORDING - 27 mins (No highlights)

@0:00 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, not bad. Sorry, my name's Craig.

@0:02 - sam hirst

How are you? What's your name? My name's Stuart.

@0:04 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Stuart.

@0:05 - sam hirst

Nice to meet you, Stuart. I do, Craig.

@0:07 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Thanks for putting the time aside. Maybe you've sort of only just got this all talked about, have you, in the last...

@0:14 - sam hirst

Yeah, yeah. Well, he mentioned it to us last night, so we've been talking about it for a bit anyway, about a rider coach, personal coach anyway.

It was really on his radar, really.

@0:26 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, no, it's the next step, really, because, to be honest, everybody is self-taught to ride a bike, aren't they, you know, because you're on the bike on your own, so then you're quite handy at it, and then you're self-taught to go racing.

Yeah. So, getting the advantage over the rest of the competition is about how it's actually the work you do away from the racetrack that enables you to have, you know, the strong weekends that everybody's aiming for, you know?

@0:59 - sam hirst

Yeah. I totally agree. Fathom margins are massive, and that little bit makes all the difference.

@1:04 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, yeah, yeah. Like you say, it's all, it's now that, you know, people often ask me, you know, what's the one aspect?

And there isn't one thing in isolation that makes a difference.

@1:16 - sam hirst

It's every small bit adding up.

@1:18 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So it's many, many small contributing factors that actually, you know, so you end up with, you know, something like Kyle Wright at the moment has just got all of those factors together, and Bradley Ray hasn't at the moment, whereas it's the other way around at the beginning of the season, wasn't it?

@1:35 - sam hirst

Yeah, 100%. How did you get on to us?

@1:40 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, so, so basically, all I did was I had a look through the course, I've been looking at the TSL, basically through the course of the year anyway.

And, and, and then, you know, my really, and the biggest thing for me is people knowing that there's a, that there's Actually, something available for them, because even if they want it, they don't know where to look for it. You know, you go on Google how to go faster, you know, on a ZX6 and it doesn't come back with me, that's for certain.

So the idea really was just really trying to reach out. We've got an assessment, a post-race assessment, which Sam filled out.

And that highlights basically what's going on internally, because we're all fixated with the outside world.

@2:31 - sam hirst

It's all about the tire pressure, you know, whether we're on the latest spec and got the, you know, Akrapovic exhaust, et cetera.

@2:41 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

But actually, when everyone's on the same thing, you've got to find the differentiators within yourself. And, you know, so that's really what it was.

It was as a reach out from me to go, you know, do you want to do an assessment, which Sam did, and then there's some, you know, over the last...

He's been looking at some free training basically just to show up. So did you have any questions yourself? I mean, obviously, I've gone through the notes that I made from yesterday, so I can recap on that, but it's whether you've got any questions yourself.

@3:17 - sam hirst

No, it was just the fact that, obviously, he said, do you do it? How do we do it? Do we sign up for it and then do it for so long and then see how it progresses?

Because he might then fall out with it after so long, or what is the script with it? You know what I mean?

You might go, right, I'll do it for what we've got Brands and Donington left. So you do it for that and then assess it and go, right, yeah, we're definitely doing it next year.

I don't know. I don't know what's your opinion.

@3:43 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

To be honest, the off-season is really good for bringing in new level of training. So I've got a lot of people that start in the off-season anyway because you're not as busy, you've got a bit more time, and you can be working on what you

We talked about what your plans are for next year, and I know you're still deciding exactly where to go, whether it's staying, you know, fights again to win the championship in MRO or make a step up.

But either way, the challenge moves on. Yeah. So I end up with, you know, like Finn Oscott, who was, you know, running in Thunder Sports.

@4:25 - sam hirst

Yeah, we know Finn, we know Joe.

@4:26 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, so Finn, I've been working with Finn since 2021, you know. Right. And now he's in Stock Thousand. Yeah, I what we still work, we have a call before every round, we have, he does a debrief with me, because the challenge always, now he's trying to get to the podium of Stock Thousand.

@4:44 - sam hirst

He's doing really well as Finn.

@4:46 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, he's doing a great job. He's doing a great job. Really he's a great lad as well, you know.

@4:50 - sam hirst

Yeah, he's a nice kid, yeah. I like Finn, he's a good lad.

@4:52 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And also, he hadn't raced for long either.

@4:55 - sam hirst

Right.

@4:55 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Similar to yourself. Right. You haven't raced for long. Which is actually a good. Good thing, in my mind, because you haven't got any ingrained habits that you go, oh, this is just the way I am, this is how I ride, or how I approach things, you actually are, you know, able to take the right approach, you know, the right way of handling things because you haven't got 10 years of riding under your belt, you know?

That's right, yeah. Very similar to Finn. So yeah, so my thoughts are that if we agree that we want to get going, we obviously need to double down and put some things in place for these last two rounds.

@5:41 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@5:42 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

But then, once they're done and dusted, it actually gives you a great opportunity to roll through the training, have everything in place for your winter testing, you know, in January, February, when you go to Armouria or wherever, and you're actually applying.

Bye. So, whereas a lot of people who start at the beginning of the season, they've got the racing and the training, and it can be, it's not, I mean, we're talking 10 minutes a day, it's not a big thing, but it's new processes, and new processes take time, you know, a habit takes time to fit in, and so when you actually, you know, it's like when you stop racing, you're sort of thinking, oh, you can't wait till, spring again, it actually keeps you motivated and keeps you, keeps you moving forward as well, and so, you know, as far as, as far as I was, I was concerned, we need to get those first couple of modules done, the biggest thing is, is, is what you're doing before you get on the bike, yeah, a couple of things, the first module is, you'll get some gains from it straight away, the first module, so, when's the next round, Sam?

@6:55 - sam hirst

Next weekend.

@6:57 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Right, okay, so, if we, if we got started straight away, By the you're going to have the first module under your belt going into that round, and I'll also give you some specific things to add to that, so we've got 10 days before you're actually arriving on the Friday to roll out on Free Practice 1.

We talk to each other at the end of each module, so it's not like I go, great, thanks for signing up, best of luck, you know, we're actually in contact all the way through, so if you did go, listen, this doesn't make any sense to me, you know, it's actually, I don't get it, because it's very simple and it's very bite-sized chunks that we're dealing in, but, you know, for your peace of mind, we're talking to each other regularly, so if we if we went, listen, we need to take a break, we're now going on a family holiday, and we're going to get away and whatever else, but the idea is that you've, you've purchased the program, so it's there for you whenever you need it.

So you might find, you know, last round, you know, we're going into the last race, you might actually just want to have a bit of a recap on goal setting.

Guess what? You can just go back to the van, load up your phone or your iPad, and it's there ready for you, you know, because you've got full access.

I don't know if you know, also, Stuart, we've got an app that we use after each session.

@8:28 - sam hirst

Right.

@8:28 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So, you know how you look at the bike, and you go, right, he's doing too much of this and not enough of that.

Yeah. We don't do that with the rider. I was saying this to Sam yesterday, you know, the rider, go and get a brew and come back and see us in an hour, you know.

Yeah. But actually, the app is him reviewing how he was in that session. Was he a bit tense, riding a bit tight?

Was he? I was fine until Billy Bob went past it. As soon as Billy Bob went past, I just, you know, gripped my teeth and tried to hang on the back of him.

That isn't a... So when you're actually able to review yourself again, you go, actually, I wasn't doing that. So I can improve by doing that in the next session.

So and then we give feedback on the app on what to do in the next session, what to focus on to actually go faster.

So even if you're P1, even if you're on pole, it's going to come up with, okay, and if you do more of this, you're going to gap them by a second.

So, so it's, it's, it's very ongoing, rather than, as I say, just a PDF that you bought.

@9:37 - sam hirst

Okay.

@9:38 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And so that sort of the platform that Sam's been on on the free trainings is that the same as we use.

So you literally get a login, just like Netflix, you get a login, you go in, you do your day's training.

And then at the end of each module, we have a call just like this to see how it applies, make sure it makes sense.

Make sure you understand it. And then time. Bye. You're ready to move on to the next subject.

@10:02 - sam hirst

Right, okay.

@10:04 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So yeah, that's how it works, basically.

@10:06 - sam hirst

What's the script then?

@10:07 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

What do we do? Yeah, well, if I just have a quick run through just where we were up to, you know, obviously the goal is to get into this top three of the championship with 27 points and the last two rounds to go.

But the barrier to that is getting frustrated when things don't go to plan and then we go into overthinking about why they haven't gone to plan and then also it's taken us a bit of time to feel comfortable enough to be able to push to the max.

@10:41 - sam hirst

Yeah, well, we've had bike issues all year and we've finally got to the bottom of that.

@10:47 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, so you went with the new gen, did you?

@10:49 - sam hirst

Yeah, the new gen ZX6 and we've just had problem after problem with it and then finally we've got somewhere and bike's right and, well, it's proved a point, hasn't it, really?

@11:00 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, well, I don't think you ever have a 10 out of 10 bike, you never do, even if it was at the beginning of the session, it's not by the end, but if you can get it to an 8 out of 10, it's good enough for you to forget about, and if you ride it at your best, you've got to forget about the bike.

@11:17 - sam hirst

Yeah, yeah, yeah, know, true, had last year before, we had a good bike, which is now a wet bike, that were perfect, and then we went with the same, with Kawasaki, with Nick Morgan, to get another, because we've got a good relationship with Nick and Liam, and it just didn't improve us, did it?

We went backwards a bit, really, but that were bike, and everything's more adjustable, etc, etc, but we've got it right now, finally got there.

@11:44 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And that can also lead to a lot of overthinking when it's a new bike as well, in comparison mode, you know, lot compared to, well, the other one used to do that through the chicane, you know, that type of thing, which slows you down, you know, mentally slows you down.

Yeah. I mean, mean. Thank So, a couple of questions that I have for you, Sam, after going through the notes, is how coachable do you think you are?

@12:09 - sam hirst

On a scale?

@12:11 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, mean, just generally, do you feel that you are?

@12:14 - sam hirst

Yeah, I feel like I can be coachable to quite a decent degree, to be fair. I mean, I'll listen and I'll take everyone's advice, whether it's from Billy Bob or a MotoGP rider, do you know what I mean?

@12:30 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

I always listen to people. Yeah, okay. All right, good, because that's important. What we really need is a really good copy and paster.

What we need is somebody to go, right, you told me this, now I'm going to go and do it.

You need to believe in it. There's no point, you know, I'm not going to say go and run off a cliff, you know.

But you need to understand why that works. But we get a lot of riders that are, you know, I'm going to try it my way or I'm going to try and apply.

And I already know. And it just takes them longer. They end up coming around eventually and realizing that it's the wrong way around.

But it takes a lot longer. So what we really want is just somebody, you know, we know this works if you work.

And it's just about copying it to the T, really. And if that's you, that's a good thing. You know, that's a good thing.

We don't have to reinvent the wheel. We just have to copy winning formula.

@13:27 - sam hirst

Is that how you got into this thing? Because I read your website and said you were a business coach, and then you got into sport.

@13:33 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, yeah. So I was working for Aprilia, actually.

@13:39 - sam hirst

I worked for Aprilia UK.

@13:41 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And before that, I worked for BMW and various other manufacturers. And I turned 50 in 2016. And I thought, yeah, I'm not doing this for the rest of my days, you know, just go around dealerships and listening to the same old stuff.

you this I'm So what am I going to do? So I didn't know what I was going to do.

So it's called Camino Coaching, because I walked that walk across Spain. And, you know, sort of coaching and mentoring and these sort of things came back to me.

So I started off working with companies, but to be honest, I didn't enjoy it, because it was very similar to my previous role.

It was helping somebody get an extra couple of percent on their spreadsheet. Yeah. And that's not what I wanted to move to.

So I sort of coached myself and said, okay, so who do you want to work with?

@14:30 - sam hirst

And I've got a bit of background in racing, not as fast as Sam, but a little bit of background.

All right.

@14:36 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So you have race then. Yeah. And obviously, because of the Aprilia connection, I actually knew quite a lot of people in that environment.

Yeah. And so I thought, I want to help a racer that's lost his mojo find a second lap. I didn't know how to do it at that point.

@14:51 - sam hirst

But that's what I wanted to do.

@14:53 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah. I rang Ian Newton, who runs in competition, the Aprilia BSB team. Oh, And just said, this is what I'm planning, you know, what do you think?

And he said, well, we've got a rider that was top form at the beginning of the season, and now he's a bit off cover.

Why don't you come down and see us? So we went down to Silverstone, and that was great for me because I spent two or three rounds just getting to understand exactly the stresses and strains that the riders were under.

There were three riders in the team, so it was really good to see the dynamic. And then I thought, right, I've to go back to work and find, you know, what we need to deliver to these people.

So that's when I started training on the principles of flow and peak performance and these aspects. So, yeah, so I love it.

@15:36 - sam hirst

It doesn't feel like work to me because it's – and you also – you never know everything because it's always changing and evolving.

@15:43 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And so there's new discoveries and technology coming out. But, yeah, so at that point, I just focused 100% on drivers.

@15:53 - sam hirst

work with drivers as well and motorcycle riders. Right. Okay. Oh, that's good.

@15:59 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah. Yeah, so I love it, love it.

@16:03 - sam hirst

Job that I could do.

@16:05 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Which is important, isn't You've got to love it.

@16:07 - sam hirst

You've got to love it. Yeah, definitely.

@16:09 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So I've got some good news and some bad news for you.

@16:11 - sam hirst

Which one do you want first? Bad.

@16:14 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Why do you want the bad? People always want the bad first.

@16:16 - sam hirst

They always want the bad first.

@16:18 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Well, the bad news is that you're going to be sick of my voice, because after going through the call yesterday and all of the stuff that we've done, I absolutely want to offer you a space.

I think you're going to get an awful lot from it. So yeah, the bad news is you'll be sick of my voice.

@16:33 - sam hirst

That's good. It's a positive.

@16:38 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

There's a white line around that dark cloud. Good stuff. So, I mean, how are you feeling, Sam, about it?

@16:45 - sam hirst

I feel all right, yeah. I feel positive about it. And it's like, I don't know, I feel like it will give me an extra step in something towards, like, actually progressing.

@16:58 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Do you know what I mean? It's the... It's It's definitely an advantage. You're going to have an advantage over the guys around you, for sure.

And to be honest, this translates into your life, not just your racing, because life's full of challenges.

@17:11 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@17:12 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So it's how you break them down and deal with them that actually means you're successful or you're not successful.

So it's the same process. I get a lot of people, Stuart, that go to me, I do this all day at work, but I never apply it to my racing.

Yeah, yeah, You know, so they actually are doing some of the things that we talk about.

@17:32 - sam hirst

And then the other way around is, I've actually started to apply what you told me about the racing in my work life or home life or whatever it might be.

@17:39 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, yeah. So it does definitely cross over, you know.

@17:43 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@17:44 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And so, yeah, so I'd be really happy to have you on board if that works for you. So, yeah, I mean, do you know the price, Stuart?

@17:55 - sam hirst

He just said it with four grand, but I said, well, what's that? Four grand over...

@18:04 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So basically, we can agree what works for you, basically. I did say yesterday, we can invoice it to you as well as a management training or something to the books.

But yeah, we normally would just, you know, split it into a few payments for you to make it more manageable.

And I mean, over the next four months or something, if that worked for you, you know.

@18:27 - sam hirst

Yeah, yeah. And how long does this last for, though, then, obviously, for how long?

@18:32 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah. So you've then got lifetime access to the training. So you've got that all the time. Right. All that we do is at the end of 12 months.

Yeah. And the calls, like Finn's doing, they carry around £99 a month a year from now. Right. And so if you wanted to carry, some people go, listen, I'm perfectly happy just to go back and do it myself.

Yeah. they don't want the extra. But Finn and quite a lot of other riders have gone. Yeah. You know, for £99, I'm happy to always have you on speed dial, and then the app is also a little bit higher grade for them to get a bit more feedback.

@19:12 - sam hirst

Right, okay.

@19:13 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

But that's basically it, yeah.

@19:14 - sam hirst

Right, well that's fair enough. As long as it's going to make an improvement, that's like I said to them last night, it's, well it is the money, but it's the consistency of it working.

@19:27 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, without showing that. To be honest, it needs to work because that's my shop window. Yeah, yeah, yeah. You know, so ultimately, at the end of the day, this is why I'm very selective about the people that I work with.

Because if I just let the doors open to anybody, and then somebody go, I didn't bother doing anything this week, oh I've been doing that, I did that thing, but I only did two of these classes or whatever.

Yeah. It's not good for me, because nobody's getting any benefit from it. No. So it needs to be people that are committed, want to improve.

many that people there migration, Thank And then I'll give them all the support that they need, literally from that first module, the overthinking and the warmup and preparation, we can get that sorted for you for your next round and you're going to feel a difference from that because all of the stresses and strains you've got is actually, Sam's assessment of Snetterson was really, really strong.

He had a really good round and he had a really good feedback. The only downside is just that 20 minutes before you're getting on the bike, basically.

@20:33 - sam hirst

Well, do you know what? At Alton Park, when we were there with Joe and Finn and Owen, Finn was sat, focused, helmet on, and it impressed me.

So I don't know if that's the statement that you do, but I was like, have you seen Finn? I said tonight.

I said, have you seen him? And he was just sat in his chair and I was like, he's getting ready.

And I couldn't tell. Because Finn and Owen were parts of the side of us weren't they? Yeah, Owen as well.

would be But Yeah, Joe Richardson. We were with Harrison. Well, all three of them.

@21:05 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, Nathan Harrison, yeah.

@21:08 - sam hirst

Yeah, Harrison Finn and Josh Owen were all there, but I saw Finn and I was like, oh, that's impressive.

@21:15 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah. No, to be honest, yeah, he's taken it to heart. We did a podcast actually at the beginning of the year, me and him, where he just actually talks about, you know, going from Thunder Sport and super teams and whatever he did back then.

But no, you know, like you say, a comedian doesn't have to be funny 24 hours a day. No. But he needs to be funny when there's 3,000 people waiting for him in an auditorium at 7.30 on a Saturday.

Yeah. And that's regardless of whether he's got a tax bill that's just arrived, his wife's told him she's not happy with her life, he's got a migraine, doesn't matter, he's getting paid because that's what he's going to do is perform.

Yeah. And he's got to flip the switch from being his normal person into being the comedian.

@22:00 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@22:01 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

We've got to do the same. The downtime at a race weekend is actually the killer, because you go and watch somebody else racing, you go and see your mates, you go and maybe you've got a sponsor come, so you go and have a chat with them and explain it all to them, and then you go, all right, I'm out in half an hour, and you're still that spectator getting on the bike.

@22:20 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@22:22 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

What we've got to do is we've got to go, right, I'm out in 40 minutes, I'm going to go back to the caravan, truck, whatever it might be, and I'm just going to get myself, I'm going to flick the switch from going from being a happy spectator to actually I've got something to do for the next 20 minutes.

@22:38 - sam hirst

Yeah, yeah.

@22:39 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

I've got a job to do. I'm here for qualifying, I'm here for FP1, whatever it might be. And that process gets you up to speed faster.

@22:49 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@22:49 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Because you're already, your session's already started. It started 40 minutes ago. Yeah. In your preparation, not, oh, well, let's see what these first laps are like.

@22:59 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@23:00 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

And we talk... I about visualization yesterday as well, where you're actually preparing yourself for the level you want to ride at.

It sounds a bit tree-huggy and a bit woo-woo, but honestly, it's grounded in you being prepared for what you're going to have to deal with.

Most riders hope they don't have to deal with anything. I hope I get the whole shot, nobody interrupts my rhythm, the tire's just as good at the end of the race as it was at the beginning, and I come away with a victory.

But how often does that happen? Never, never. So they've got this sort of wish list of things they want to happen and get disappointed as soon as it doesn't, rather than going, this is going to be tough.

Everybody here wants to stop me getting top three in this championship, so I'm going to have to fight for it.

And what am I ready for in the fight? Am I ready? For a battle with three or four of them, am I ready for leading and I've got to concentrate on me and just try and get a gap?

If you've run through all those things in your mind, you're prepared for it when it happens in reality. But if you've not done any of it, and we've got a full process in explaining how it works, if you haven't done anything, it's just like a bear, you know, a rabbit in the headlights with, I was leading, I was just thinking about them all the time.

@24:27 - sam hirst

Yeah. Well, that's happened to you, hasn't it?

@24:29 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah. It's a common thing. And I always use this as well. You can't beat yourself up for not knowing the answer.

@24:37 - sam hirst

No. It's experience as well.

@24:40 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

It's a bit like learning a new language. You know, if I don't know what the word for cup is in Spanish, I can't beat myself up for not knowing what the word is.

And somebody tells me. Yeah. But so many people get frustrated. I can't believe it. I lost it by leading or, or, you know, melted under the pressure.

Actually, whatever it might be, but actually, it's not their fault until they know what the alternative is, you know?

@25:06 - sam hirst

Yeah.

@25:08 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

So, yeah, so that's basically it.

@25:12 - sam hirst

Yeah, we get you started straight away, you can get your onboarding done today, and then you're into the first training.

Right, okay, right, okay.

@25:29 - sam hirst

Do you want to do a card? What's the best way to do it? I can, if you send some bank details or whatever, Bernie's going to do wages in a bit, so I'll get a tobacco, a grand over tonight.

@26:30 - sam hirst

Excellent. Well, you've got to give it a go, haven't we? Like I said, like Joe said, Joe Richardson said they were Gary Workley for bike riding, he helped Joe Talbot a bit, didn't he?

But not on this level.

@26:43 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

No. No. Joe Talbot was on the programme last year, actually. Were they? Yeah. we took Joe. Joe was really struggling with self-doubt, really struggling with believing in himself.

Yeah. And, you know, obviously, you know, fought for the title all the way to the last round, you know?

Yeah.

@27:00 - sam hirst

Yeah. He's lad, Joe.

@27:02 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, he's a good lad.

@27:04 - sam hirst

He's always fighting. He's always boxing.

@27:06 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

Yeah, exactly. Yeah, yeah. I wouldn't want to...

@27:09 - sam hirst

You don't want a right-hander off the little out of the way.

@27:13 - Craig Muirhead (nsnconstructionnw@gmail.com)

All right, good stuff. If you send me the details, I'll get the invoice across and we'll get you started.

Brilliant. Thank you. Okay. Take it easy. Cheers. See you later.
